Heart-friendly diets:

How pharmacies can promote nutrition for cardiovascular wellness

Cardiovascular disease (CVD) takes more lives each year in the U.S. than any other cause. In 2021, more than 931,000 people died from CVD, according to the American Heart Association (AHA). By promoting heart-healthy diets, you can help your patients take proactive steps toward cardiovascular wellness, as well as position your pharmacy as a trusted source for health guidance.

What makes a diet heart-healthy?

A heart-healthy diet emphasizes nutrient-rich foods that protect cardiovascular health. Focus on these key components:

- Fruits and vegetables: Packed with vitamins, minerals, and antioxidants, these help reduce inflammation and support overall heart health. Encourage patients to fill half their plates with colorful options like leafy greens, berries, and citrus fruits.
- Whole grains: Foods like oats, quinoa, and whole-grain bread are rich in fiber, which can lower cholesterol and improve heart health.
- Healthy proteins: Recommend lean options such as fish, poultry, beans, and nuts. Omega-3 fatty acids in fatty fish like salmon are especially beneficial.
- Healthy fats: Monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats, found in olive oil, avocado, and certain nuts, help reduce bad cholesterol levels.

On the other hand, patients should limit saturated fats, trans fats, sodium, and added sugars. Educating patients about reading nutrition labels can go a long way in helping them make better choices.

How pharmacies can lead the way

Your pharmacy can empower patients with practical tools and guidance for heart-healthy living:

- 01 Patient education: Start conversations about the benefits of a heart-friendly diet. Use simple language to explain how better nutrition cannot only reduce the risk of heart disease but also significantly improve overall well-being.
- 02 In-store signage and displays: Highlight heart-healthy products such as whole-grain snacks, low-sodium foods, and omega-3 supplements. Use signage to guide patients toward these options.
- 03 Personalized counseling: Tailor advice for patients with specific conditions, like hypertension or high cholesterol. Show how dietary changes, combined with their current medications, can improve outcomes.
- 04 Community engagement: Your pharmacy is not just a place to pick up prescriptions. Host events or workshops during American Heart Month or other health observances. Invite dietitians to speak or create interactive experiences like "Build a Heart-Healthy Meal." This can inspire your community to prioritize heart health.
- 05 Digital outreach: Share tips and recipes for heart-friendly meals on your website and social media platforms.

Collaboration and ongoing support

Pharmacies can also partner with other healthcare providers in their communities to reinforce consistent messaging about heart health. By working together, you can provide patients with a comprehensive approach to cardiovascular wellness. Additionally, offering tools like medication reviews and consultations ensures that patients are fully supported in their health journey.

By promoting heart-friendly diets and offering accessible resources, your pharmacy can become a cornerstone of cardiovascular care in your community. Inspire your patients to make simple, sustainable changes that lead to healthier lives — starting with what's on their plates.

February is American Heart Month, making it the perfect time to focus on heart health. Stock up on blood pressure monitors, cholesterol-lowering supplements, and nutritional products to support cardiovascular wellness all month long.
